The Supreme Court ~~reversed~~ granted ~~gave~~ the defendant a new trial and in Oct Term 1876

Bank of the State of Missouri v Benoist & Hackney
10 Mo 579 (Mar Term 1847)

Benoist deposited currency in Bank of State of Mo and accounts were kept in "currency" which is defined as current banknotes 3 to 5% less than specie. The Bank stopped dealing in "currency" before this suit was filed. The suit involved a bill of exchange and on the Bank's refusal to pay it the 20% per annum penalty was asked for. The court held that the 20% penalty did not apply when the bank had an honest defence to the demand.

Farwell v Kennett 7 Mo 595 (1842)

Judge Scott. "Experience has taught us that there is a wide difference between the currency contemplated by law and the actual currency."

Bank of Missouri v Anderson
In error from St Louis County Circuit Ct.
/ Mo 244 Nov. Term 1842
Summary proceeding to recover judgment on banknotes + 5% per month penalty. Court holds bank is entitled to trial by jury. States that Ds in disagreement as to the right to the 5% penalty each month.

In the case of Bank of State of Mo v Merchants Bank of Baltimore
10 Mo 123

Cashier testifies in July 19, 1837 the bank dealt in notes of Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky that first specie suspension took place in May, 1837 resumed on Aug 13, 1838, second suspension October 1837, resumption 1840.
The Bank of State of Mo had no power to deal in depreciated currency but did
